Animal Welfare

Samast Mahajan's commitment to animal welfare, specifically through its Jivadaya initiatives, has been pivotal in ensuring the well-being of livestock and other animals. The organization has consistently worked towards providing essential support for the protection and care of animals, particularly cattle.

Samast Mahajan has provided shelter and support for over 15,00,000 cattle across various regions. This initiative aims to ensure that animals, particularly cows and other livestock, have access to safe and humane conditions where they can be cared for, protected, and nurtured.

The Jivadaya activities carried out by Samast Mahajan are a testament to the organization's commitment to animal welfare. By providing shelter, financial support, and educational resources, Samast Mahajan is helping to create a more compassionate and sustainable future for both animals and the communities that rely on them.

Rural Development (Gram Vikas)

Rural development is a cornerstone of Samast Mahajan's vision to create self-sustaining, empowered communities across India. Our efforts focus on addressing critical challenges faced by rural areas, including water scarcity, environmental degradation, and economic stagnation. By integrating sustainable practices such as tree plantation, pond deepening, water resource management, soil conservation, nursery development, and grassland rejuvenation, Samast Mahajan has made significant strides in fostering rural progress.

Samast Mahajan has successfully completed comprehensive rural development projects. This arid region faced severe challenges, such as inadequate water supply and lack of greenery, which hindered agricultural productivity and economic growth.

Grassland Development: A staggering acre of grasslands were developed, creating fertile land for agriculture and benefiting livestock. These efforts have increased farming yields and improved the economic condition of villages.

Water Body Restoration: Approximately 34+ lakes and ponds were cleaned and deepened. These restored water bodies now serve as reliable sources of water for irrigation, drinking, and daily use.

Economic Impact: Develop grasslands, farmland, and water bodies, enabling the local communities to thrive.

This transformation has not only solved pressing water issues but also fostered a sustainable and flourishing rural ecosystem, providing a model for future projects..

Tree Plantation (Vriksharopan)

Restoring Nature, One Indigenous Tree at a Time

In the intricate web of life on Earth, trees are foundational to the health of our planet. They provide countless ecological, environmental, and social benefits—from purifying the air we breathe to mitigating the effects of climate change. Trees act as natural carbon sinks, absorbing harmful carbon dioxide from the atmosphere and improving the overall quality of life for both humans and wildlife.

At Samast Mahajan, we believe that planting trees is one of the most powerful ways to restore balance to our environment and ensure a sustainable future. Through our Vriksharopan (Tree Plantation) Initiative, we have successfully planted over 10,000+ trees across various regions, contributing to environmental sustainability, biodiversity conservation, and rural empowerment.

11 Animal hospital on wheel

These are not just ambulances; they are fully-equipped mobile hospitals designed to cater to emergencies and critical care. Here's what makes Samast Mahajan's ambulances stand out:

Operation Theaters: Fully functional units to perform emergency surgeries on the go.

Anesthesia Units: Ensures painless and safe procedures for animals in critical conditions

Oxygen Cylinders & Concentrators: Life-saving equipment for animals in need of respiratory support.

Freezers for Medications: Ensures proper storage of injections and medicines for timely treatments.

•In 2022, we launched our 11 Animal Hospital on Wheels, a pioneering initiative dedicated to saving the lives of animals and birds. In just a year and a half, we've provided critical care to over 50,000 animals that might have otherwise suffered and died in pain. Our ambulances are fully equipped with essential medical facilities, including an operation theatre, anaesthesia, oxygen cylinder and concentrator, refrigerator for storing injections, geyser, and fire safety equipment.

•When animals are found wounded or injured in accidents, they are treated on-site in our ambulances. Our team, consisting of a qualified BVSc doctor and a Livestock Inspector (LIS), performs necessary operations and provides comprehensive care. Every day, we treat and operate on over 100 pets, including dogs, cats, birds, and larger animals, thanks to our fleet of 11 Animal Ambulances.
